Connie Mae, Mary, Della and Redrick was born to Aunt Edna and Uncle Redrick Augustus [Gus] Young in the Goodland Township of Orangeburg County, Marshall and Harris was born in Springfield, S.C. but I'm not positive.

Connie, after the death of her mother, Aunt Edna, she married John [Bub] Tyndall, her cousin. she had been stricken at an early age with poliomyelitis producing paralysis and deformity in her left hip and leg. She was a very delicately beautiful person and a very refined person, and never allowed her handicap to interfere with her daily activities. She was very special.

Della, spent most of her life in Bamberg County, as housewife, operating their business establish on the outskirts of Bamberg, S.C. and other employment in various enterprises.

Redrick,, met his wife, Joan, while serving in the Merchant Marines during World War Two, in London. He operated the Jo-Red Construction Co. and operated the Dixie Oil & Tackle shop, in North Charleston, S.C.

Marshall, began his adult life in Bamberg, and as well. I believe had a stint in the Merchant Marines, during World War Two. He was the rebel of the family and I guess one of my closest friends growing up together, we taking chances in our fanaticism, almost at times, ending our existence on this Planet earth. Where ever there was a dare, we were there. H.D. and Redrick doing the daring, and me and Mot, performing the action.

He, like his step brother, Clarence Bunch, and his father, uncle Gus had a few skirmishes with the law, although nothing serious. Marshall, dabble in selling moonshine, and in 1947, his first wife, Brenez, filed a complaint against him for non child support, as being an able bodied man capable of earning and making a livelihood and without cause or excuse abandon and fail to supply the actual necessities of life for his wife and minor unmarried children. Children names was: Jerry Dean, age 4 years, Joseph Harris, age 2 years, Johnnie Martin, age 8 months.

He went before the court of general sessions in Bamberg, and sentenced to be confined at hard labor in the public works of Bamberg for a term of one year, or a like period in the state penitentiary, or pay a fine of $600.00. If he paid $10.00 per week to the clerk of court, beginning in Sept/47 to be transmitted to Mrs Young, the sentence would be suspended , and placed on probation for 2 years, and if the fine is paid, $500.00 was to be paid to, Bernez, for the support of she and her three minor children.

Mot, [Marshall] moved to North Charleston, was an excellent carpenter and for awhile operated an Extermination Business. Later he was employed with Mims Amusement Business , and remained there until his death, with a stroke and other complications.

Harris, I don't know too much about Harris after he grew up into adulthood. After the War, he moved to Beaufort S.C. We visited there a few times, he lived there until his death.

This is Uncle Gus, 1890/1936 married my Aunt Edna. I heard my Dad speak many times, Every one in the public's works of Bamberg new my Uncle Gus. He was sentence several times, for violation of the Prohibition Law. always being sentence from 8, to 12 years, hard labor in the public works, serve a few months and rest being suspended. It seemed Aunt Edna was always coming to see Papa to help in getting Uncle Gus out of some sort of trouble Aunt Edna and Papa was very close, she was kinda special to him. His other sister, Aunt Vick, the next closest to him, was bold, firm, and ran things in her household. Aunt Edna and Uncle Gus just seemed like they couldn't settle down in one place . I know 5 places they moved within walking distance of the Walker Place where we lived, including on my fathers farm, until they settled in Bamberg. My Dad always felt guilty because he started Uncle Gus, in the moonshine business. Aunt Vic, and uncle Shelt, when they returned from Georgia, after E.J. was born, they moved across the river from us in a big old house, and they remained there until their deaths. Aunt Edna sure didn't like that house, said it was to big, when you talked you could hear an echo. I remember aunt Edna and aunt Vick, more so than the others.

At right is Augustus Young, father of Uncle Gus and grandfather to Aunt Edna's children.
